Football 7-a-side

This article is part of a series produced by the British Council to help you learn English and learn about different Paralympic sports. Football 7-a-side is played by athletes with cerebral palsy.

DID YOU KNOW

1. Introduction
   Millions of people around the world know that football can be very enjoyable to play or to watch. Perhaps you are one of them? However, did you know that playing football can have huge benefits for some people with cerebral palsy? Players and officials agree that participating in 7-a-side football can have two very positive results. It can help to improve the impairment and it can also help the athlete to succeed in being an active member of their society.

2. Johannes Siikonen
   Johannes Siikonen was the captain of the Finnish 7-a-side team. He said that playing football increases physical fitness by strengthening muscles and noted that some players ‘are now able to run … (where) … they hadn’t been able to do it before’.

3. Valeire Suskevic
   Valeire Suskevic, President of the Ukraine Paralympic Association, described more benefits for people with cerebral palsy. He said that there are many examples where, after playing football, players’ ‘spirit and muscles became much stronger’ and this helped them ‘get adapted … and be able to have a normal life within society.’

4. Luke Evans
   Irish player Luke Evans agreed: ‘It helps with the physical attributes, but at the same time it makes you more determined, more committed. I think it’s essential to have a sport in your life, because it helps your attitude and how you see things’.

RULES AND CLASSIFICATION FOR PARALYMPIC FOOTBALL 7-A-SIDE

What is it?
7-a-side football is similar to 11-a-side football, but with rules adapted for disabled athletes.

Who can participate in 7-a-side football at the Paralympics?
7-a-side football is open to athletes with cerebral palsy. It is currently for male athletes only.

Classification
- Classes 5, 6, 7 and 8: Class 5 is for severely disabled athletes and Class 8 for mildly disabled athletes.
- Athletes in all classes can move without needing a wheelchair.
- Teams must include at least one athlete from either class 5 or 6.

How is it played?
Changes to the rules of traditional football include:
- each team consists of seven players
- the playing field and the goals are smaller
- there is no offside rule
- throw-ins may be made with one hand only and must be thrown from below the upper body (underhanded)
- each half lasts 30 minutes
